Dear Aunt Maria,

As you know, last year we went to the South France on our holiday but we did not enjoy it very much. Consequently, this year we decided to go to the Island Capri off the coast of Italy. Italy and France have a similar weather and it is usually very warm and sunny for most of the summer.

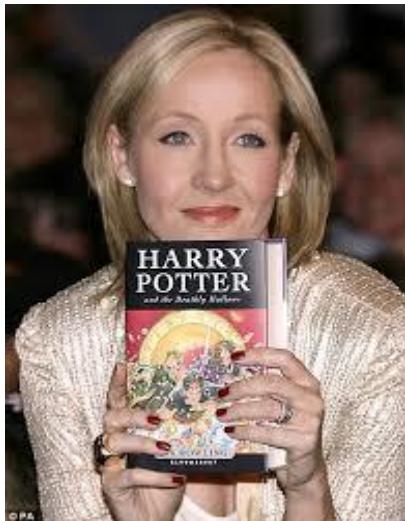

Unfortunately, neither Katina nor I couldn't get away from work until saturday and the plane was crowded. The flight was all right, but nobody were at the airport in Naples to meet us. Moreover, the airline lost all of our luggages and we had to wait for two hours before our cases were found. While we were waiting at the airport, someone stole Katina's jewellery from her handbag. We seemed to have a bad luck all the way to Capri. Even the ferry from Sorrento to Capri broke down!

Capri is a very beautifull island but there are tourists everywhere. Only a few are Italian. Most of them are strangers like us. Someone living on the island told us the number of tourists was increasing rapidly every year. I think we will stay at home next year!

Yours faithfully,
Nicola
